

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

April 1, 2019

His Excellency
Tomáš Zdechovský
Member of the European Parliament
Brussels

Dear Mr. Zdechovský:

Henry Kissinger once claimed: 'Who do I call if I want to call Europe?' Unfortunately, his famous sentence is still valid. Here in the United States of America, we still perceive the absence of a strong leader who would be able to represent all people of Europe.

Due to Brexit, the Great Britain is in a state of chaos. France is on the verge of civil war and other countries in Europe are embroiled in constant battles between parties and leaders within their own legislative bodies.

Therefore, I decided to think outside the box. I have been following the efforts of individual Members of the European Parliament for a long time. Therefore, it was impossible to overlook what you have been doing. You are one of the most active MEPs and the results of your work are overwhelming. Foremost, I appreciate your work in the Inter-Parliamentary Council to Combat Terrorism and the fact, that after our country left the UNHCR, you called on other states who have in mind a fair treatment for the State of Israel to join us.

At the same time, you come from the Czech Republic, the heart of Europe, thus you have the strategic position to have a decisive influence in Europe.

Therefore, I would very much like to meet you personally. Please accept my invitation to visit the White House where I would like to discuss our future cooperation and perhaps form a personal friendship. I am convinced that it will be you who will figuratively become my much needed phone number in Europe.

Sincerely yours
